GETTING STARTED

Ten words a day

Each day has one theme — family, food, colors, places — and ten words you will use first. Learn them on one page, then write them from memory on the next.

How to use this book

1. Read each word in Hangul and sound it out with the syllables under it.
2. Say each word out loud three times — tick a circle each time.
3. On the review page, cover the right column, write the Korean from the English, then check.

Action and describing words end in 다 — the dictionary form (가다, to go). In conversation the ending changes: 가요 is the polite "go."

Romanization is split by syllable — ga jok for 가족 — so you can sound out the Hangul above it. It is a guide, not a rule: listen to native speakers whenever you can.
